Another Year Is Dawning

In many churches, the first Sunday of the year wouldn't be complete without singing Frances Ridley Havergal's great "Another Year Is Dawning." Its words reflect the deep consecration that marked her poems. Frances considered every New Year's Day a never-to-be-missed opportunity of rededication to Christ, and several New Year's hymns came from her pen.

This particular poem, "Another Year Is Dawning," was written as a prayer for the beginning of 1874. Frances composed it near the end of the old year and had it printed on a specially designed greeting card to be sent to friends. The caption said, "A Happy New Year! Ever Such May It Be!"

As it turned out, Frances herself needed that prayer because just a few days later she suffered a stunning disappointment. She was hoping to be launched as an author in America, and her agent in New York had made reassuring promises. Then came a letter she thought would bear the first of many royalty checks. Instead, it reported that her publisher had gone bankrupt in the Stock Market crash of 1873.

But as Frances had only recently turned all her affairs over to the Lord, she bore the crisis with peace, writing to a friend:

I have just had such a blessing in the shape of what would have been only two months ago a really bitter blow to me...I was expecting a letter from America, enclosing thirty-five pounds now due me, and possibly news that my book was going on like steam. The letter has come, and, instead of all this, my publisher has failed in the universal crash. He holds my written promise to publish only with him as the condition of his launching me, so this is not simply a little loss, but an end of all my American prospects...

I really had not expected that He would do for me so much above all I asked, as not merely to help me to acquiesce in this, but positively not to feel it at all, and only to rejoice in it as a clear test of the reality of victorious faith which I do find brightening almost daily. Two months ago this would have been a real trial to me, for I built a good deal on my American prospects; now "Thy will be done" is not sigh but only a song.

Dr. Robert J. Morgan

*Another year is dawning! dear Father, let it be,
In working or in waiting, another year with thee;
Another year of leaning upon thy loving breast,
Another year of trusting, of quiet, happy rest.*

*Another year of mercies, of faithfulness and grace;
Another year of gladness in the shining of thy face;
Another year of progress, another year of praise,
Another year of proving thy presence all the days.*

*Another year of service, of witness for thy love;
Another year of training for holier work above.
Another year is dawning! Dear Father, let it be
On earth, or else in heaven, another year for thee.*
